There are passive communication satellites and active communication satellites. The passive ones reflect radio signals in much the same way as a mirror reflects light. They carry no electronic equipment and no radio antennas. The American satellites called Echo I and Echo 2 launched in 1960s were of this type. Active satellites receive signals from transmitting stations on the ground and retransmit the signals to receiving stations on the ground.

English is a great and inspiring language which is to play the most vital role in changing the present aggressive and militant outlook of the humanity has an extremely bright and optimistic future. It is to be crowned as the 'language of humanity'. The voice of 'Human civilization' and the only Beacon, guiding the frustrated and dejected vessel of our civilization amid the powerful ocean of mass destruction, violence and bloodshed.

It is a wrong and narrow-minded assumption among some of the Indians that with the spread of Hindi, as lingua franca of our country, English language would have down. I am confident that, with the growth of our National Language, we should equally cultivate the International Language. If Hindi is our National Language, English will be our International Language. We must love both the languages as one is the language of our motherland, the other is the language of our fatherland which is "as wide as the blue-sky."

English language will be the only medium of instruction in the future international university of the world state where the people of the world receive training in the art of universal citizenship. It would serve as the guiding light in the realm of peace.

Questions :

1. What language is mentioned as "the language of humanity"?
2. What is the wrong assumption of some Indians?
3. Why should we love both Hindi and English?
4. "As wide as the blue sky" : What do you mean by the expression?
5. Pick the word from the passage that would mean : "to develop or improve".
